

IS TOXIC LEAD LURKING IN YOUR DISHES OR TOYS?

YOU'D BE SURPRISED HOW COMMON IT IS.

Bring in 1-2 pieces of everyday dishware, fine china, or vintage toys and Tamara Rubin (aka Lead Safe Mama) will test them on the spot with her XRF analyzer.

Federal agencies agree that there is no "safe" level of lead exposure for children. Even a microscopic amount of lead can cause permanent neurological damage. Take advantage of this opportunity to protect your child's health!

About Tamara - In 2005, Tamara's young sons were lead-poisoned when a contractor used illegal methods (including "open flame torch burning") to prepare the exterior siding of her historic Portland home for repainting. The invisible leaded fumes seeped into her home and were inhaled by her children, instantly poisoning them and causing life-long disabilities and health challenges. Tamara has since become an award-winning, internationally recognized lead-poisoning prevention activist and documentary filmmaker. Learn more at LeadSafeMama.com.
