✓ Complaint Description

Briefly describe your complaint:

The company is selling heavily lead contaminated sunscreen with language and images (including videos) indicating the product is "edible" and "made with edible ingredients" - when it contains Lead in the range of 3,000 to 4,000 ppb+ We approached the State of Washington about this as it is (at face value) a violation of their new Toxic-Free Cosmetics Act, but they said it is not as it is a medicated product. The issue is currently more that it is deceptive advertising with their "safe enough to eat" language. We purchased the product for lab testing in both 2025 and 2026 and confirmed it continues to be heavily lead contaminated (with a higher level of Lead than any other mineral sunscreen tested to date). We have written a few pieces about this - link here: <https://tamararubin.com/2025/06/sky-sol-face-body-sunscreen-spf-50/> - then they filed fraudulent copyright claims against us - here: <https://tamararubin.com/2026/05/nbc-disney-nfl/> - and we are looking for help in getting this product removed from the market (or getting them to change their marketing) - more on that here (under "Legal Case #2": <https://tamararubin.com/2026/06/june-18-update/> - example of deceptive / false / misleading advertising here:

we believe that this company is functionally based in Austin Texas, even though they have a Delaware Corporate address. NOTE: Justin Rorick had suggested that I speak with Ken Paxton's office about this and other similar issues with products that we have discovered through the Lead Safe Mama, LLC Community Collaborative Laboratory Testing Initiative. I happen to be driving cross country this week and could possibly meet up with Ken / Ken's office in person early next week if they have availability! My cell: 415-609-3182

Briefly tell us the desired resolution to your complaint. Include monetary compensation if applicable:

The company should cease marketing their product with the word edible. They should pay restitution towards a fund for childhood Lead poisoning prevention (primary care testing) incl. covering the cost of lead testing for any child who used the product.
